Why You Should Preserve This Catalog Like You Keep a Book

1) Because it contains a list of the rare varieties of Gladiolus which you do not find in all catalogs. If you do not intend to buy them, you may see some and would like to know more about them. The catalog gives you this information.

2) A little treatise on the Gladiolus and the notes on proper cultivation may be worth reading over if a question comes up about care.

GLADIOLUS

The following is a résumé of a gladiolus lecture given by the Rev. P. Oswald in charge of The Mission Gardens, Techny, Illinois, who are probably the largest growers of choice gladiolus in the Chicago area.

BOTANY OF GLADIOLUS

The gladiolus belongs to the Iridaceae, or iris family, which contains among its sixty genera and one thousand species such common garden flowers as iris, tigridia, freesia and crocus, as well as the gladiolus.

BOTANICAL CHARACTERISTICS

The first step to understand in the culture of any plant is to learn about the natural habitat of the plant, its climate, its season of growth and blooming and its soil and moisture condition (swamp or desert).

The gladiolus being of the Lily family produces bulbs like the lily with the difference that the scales are not fleshy, but are dry husks, that protect the bulb against drying in the hot sands of South Africa, their natural habitat. That is a reason why gladiolus can stand storage in a heated basement without spoiling, although they are better stored cool, and why they must be dry before being stored away.

PREPARATION OF THE SOIL

Gladiolus will grow in the poorest ground, but do not expect them to grow a better flower than the small wild ones in South Africa in such soil. If you want a plant that grows like wildfire, you must feed it. The gladiolus is no different than any other flower in this respect.

Plenty of organic material in the ground is the big secret, which is what the ordinary backyard gardener frequently neglects for economy's sake. They are willing to spend their money on expensive plants but not on the preparation of the soil.

If you can have barnyard manure, put it on in fall and dig it under; otherwise use shredded sheep or cattle manure, bonemeal or tankage.

In spring use only well rotted manure with plenty of peatmoss. Peatmoss preserves the moisture, aerates the soil, prevents it from cracking, makes it mellow and workable and provides a rooting medium for the plants. The stronger the root-growth, the stronger the tops. And strong heavy foliage will bring strong flower spikes.

TIME OF PLANTING

Plant your first bulbs as soon as the ground can be worked in spring. Plant only ordinary varieties because the time of frost is not past. Gladiolus can stand a light frost and you have your flowers much earlier, if the season is favorable. Plant your best bulbs the end of April or beginning of May. They will have a long season to grow and to make good bulbs. You will have some bulbs you do not care to keep another year because the variety should go in the discard. Plant them late, the end of June or beginning of July. They will bring flowers late in fall before frost. The bulb has no time to ripen and should be left out to freeze.

TIMING FOR SHOWS

Bulbs which are set aside for producing flowers for the flower shows must be planted so that they arrive just at the right time. You must know the flowering season of the bulbs, if early or mid-season or late, and plant accordingly. Our catalog gives the blooming dates. Plant enough, as they may come a week earlier or later according to season.

SPACING

Give your best bulbs which you want to raise for giant size flowers enough room to develop, four inches apart in single rows, the rows 15-18 inches apart. Common gladiolus plant closer together to save space.

Double rows 18 inches apart are to be recommended.

Plant bulblets very thick in wide rows, three inches wide, about 50 bulblets to a foot. They grow better if close. Only varieties which are known to produce large bulbs the first season should be given more space.

DEPTH OF PLANTING

Plant ordinary bulbs four inches deep. Plant deeper in sandy soil and more shallow in extra heavy soil. The depth of planting hardly influences the quality of the flower-spike, but deep planting prevents the spike from falling over.

Extra heavy stalks should be tied to a green bamboo stake, which does not reach higher than the first flower. Label your plants properly and check them on a piece of paper that you may be able to identify the varieties if somebody should move the stakes.

CULTIVATION

Cultivate deep in the beginning before the roots spread making it gradually more shallow as the season advances. After a long rainy season, when cultivating was not possible, cultivate only shallow because the roots of the plants are on the surface, coming up very fast in moist weather. By fall cultivating should be shallow, but frequent, especially after every rain or watering to preserve the moisture and to prevent the soil from cracking which would break the roots and give the plants a bad setback, from which they never recover, and will therefore produce nothing more than an average flower.

WATERING

Watering should be infrequent but thorough. If you water by hand, begin at one end and water to the other end, come back again and repeat it over at least five times, giving your water a chance to soak in, to reach the roots. Cultivate the day after the watering to preserve the moisture.

A thorough watering every two weeks should be sufficient.

FERTILIZATION

Fast-growing plants need more plant-food than the bacterial process in the ground can supply. Immediately available fertilizers are, therefore, the proper thing. They should contain the three elements of Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid and Potassium. Any of the well-known commercial fertilizers contain the right proportion, such as: Vigoro, Loma, Milorganite, Vert, Nitrophoska. The proportion of application is figured from the Nitrogen content. One pound of Nitrogen to every 1000 square feet of ground is about the limit for a single application. We would recommend half of it at a time and repeat the application after two months.

Applied to Vigoro, this formula would mean 20 pounds of Vigoro to every 1000 square feet of ground, because Vigoro has four pounds of Nitrogen to every 100 pounds of material. Such fertilizers must not come in contact with the plants, because they burn. In dry weather, watering after application of fertilizer is necessary to make the fertilizer available.

On our plantings we like to use Nitrophoska, which is convenient to use as well as being very efficient. Its convenience of use is due to the fact that it is coarse and will not adhere to and burn the foliage. We can, therefore, stand at one place and broadcast the fertilizer over a large area. This is a highly concentrated fertilizer containing 15% Nitrogen, 30% Phosphoric Acid and 15% Potash.

DISEASES

Buy healthy bulbs and do not let them come in contact with diseased ones. Throw out badly diseased bulbs. The rest can be treated with Semesan or Calogreen. Instructions how to apply come with the material.

THRIPS

Thrips have become so widespread in private gardens, that treatment should be given to all bulbs. We recommend Bichloride of Mercury. One ounce to 8 gallons of water (1-1000). Use only wooden or earthenware containers when treating the bulbs due to the fact that Bichloride of Mercury damages metal containers and becomes ineffective. If you have the time to tear open the husks of the bulbs, so much the better. Soak for eight (8) hours.

GARDEN BOOK

A small Garden Book telling you in short how to treat your various plants is essential to success. It is cheap enough so that you can order it with your other requirements. Here it is: Better Gardening by H. O'Brien. Only 25c per copy.

OUR GUARANTEE

All our planting-stock was treated with Semesan and Calogreen, thus assuring healthy bulbs. We take great care in keeping all bulbs true to name, and if any should be found otherwise, we are ready to replace them to the full amount paid.

In this Catalog you will find a Wholesale List carrying prices on larger quantities. We are in a position to quote you very attractive prices on planting-stock in quantity of some varieties listed herein.

TIME LIMIT FOR ORDERS

We appreciate early orders. They will have the assurance of getting all varieties wanted, before any are sold out. No bulblets available after April 5.

DISCOUNT

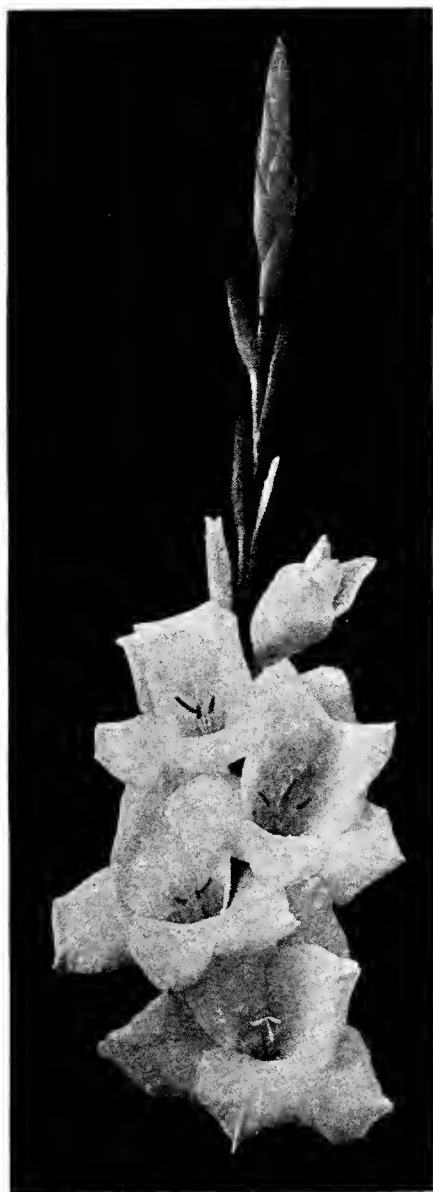

On varieties from the catalog at the regular price we allow a discount in additional bulbs of 10% for orders from $5-$10; a discount of 20% on orders from $10-$20; a discount of 25% on orders over $20. No discount but generous overcount on orders less than $5. No discount on Collections and Mixture.

TERMS

No order accepted for less than $1. Prices include transportation. Send cash with orders. For large orders 25% deposit will hold order.

A BASKET DISPLAY IN GARFIELD PARK

Collective Offerings of Gladiolus at Bargain Prices

In almost every gladiolus catalog we find a section devoted to what is usually termed "Gladiolus Collections." The purpose of this section of the catalog is to help the reader make a selection of good varieties which is best suited to his or her pocket-book. The Bulblet Collections are very handy for those wishing to obtain the newest varieties at low prices, and the Bulb Collections very handy for those who wish to add varieties to the collection they already have. If you can understand what it means to be a Stamp Collector, you will also understand what it means to be a Gladiolus Collector. For those who are simply interested in having an array of lovely flowers in their garden, and are not interested whether each particular Gladiolus has a name or not, we have a SPECIAL BARGAIN in our MISSION MIXTURE COLLECTION.

FIRST DAHLIA IN ABOVE PICTURE IS ANNA W. ICKES

A Word About Dahlias

"A Dahlia in every Garden" is the slogan of the Central States Dahlia Society, and it will be true soon if the Dahlia interest keeps increasing as it has in the past few years.

The Dahlia is so gorgeous and fascinating and at the same time of such easy culture that a large number of beginners make a spectacular success. Under unfavorable conditions failure cannot be avoided, but it is human nature not to give up under difficulties. Try again and do better. If your Dahlias have not been what you expected, try other varieties which grow more easily.

CULTURE

We enclose cultural directions with every shipment of Dahlias.

GUARANTEE

We try to send out roots which show buds and are bound to grow, unless they are allowed to dry out or freeze or rot. To prevent that, we endeavor to ship late in the spring, shortly before planting time, in May. Anybody who wants to receive the bulbs at an earlier time is requested to state that in the order. If any roots should not develop a bud in due time, we are ready to replace them.

TERMS

Kindly send remittance with order. All tubers will be sent prepaid and will be shipped with full instructions, as mentioned above, for planting. If you prefer shipment at a certain date, please specify. And we would ask that you try to make your order total not less than $1, as it is hardly possible to fill an order for less than this and not lose money.

GALVANIZED PLANT STAKES

We acquired a large quantity of rose stakes made of galvanized wire in various lengths and thicknesses. They are slightly used, but are as good as new. We want to pass the bargain on to our customers.

2½ feet, No. 9 gauge $1.00 per 100
5 feet, No. 9 gauge 1.50 per 100
4½ feet, Extra heavy (good for dahlias) 3.00 per 100

Prices for larger quantities on request

Such stakes last a lifetime and are useful for every kind of plants that need support. They are hardly visible and easily set up even in hard ground.

ROSES!

If you like Gladiolus, you will also like Roses. If you don't like Gladiolus, you may love Roses.

A Wonderful Offer!

We have access to the finest Rose plants in the country and offer you, as long as they last, the finest Hybrid Tea Roses you would ever wish to have — cut-flower Roses. Everybody loves a Rose, so why not have some plants from which you can cut the flowers? The Rose plants here offered are distinct from ordinary bench plants by being winter-rested and well ripened so that they are ready to produce an abundance of flowers as soon as they are planted and the weather turns warm. Their perfect root system is packed in fertile peat protecting them against drying out.
